

Diversity Strategies - 9 Ways To Get It Right

“By making small, intentional changes in the way we relate to the world around us, we can all improve our practice.”

Are Your Diversity Strategies Missing the Mark? Nine Ways to Get it Right | Cult of Pedagogy

READ MORE

In the space below, expand on your attention grabbing quote above by providing a summary of the article or video. Your summary should include, at a minimum:

1) This podcast episode gives 9 suggestions to be more inclusive of diversity in the classroom. Hedreich Nichols, a grammy nominated artist and teacher, is interviewed in this podcast to tell about her life and her advice for teachers in regards to diversity in the classroom. The nine suggestions discussed in the podcast are as follows: Read, be open to feedback, expand your circle, get comfortable being uncomfortable, don't forget gender, beware "imperceptible" distance, validate code switching, embrace the elephant in the room, and identify and fight bias.

2) The information in this podcast is relevant because it deals with a topic that every teacher should be working towards in their classroom - being more inclusive of diversity.

This podcast impacted me by giving me new ideas to try and also share with other teachers.

3) I feel that the 9 strategies discussed in this piece are easy to implement, and will help improve my practice. I also feel that after listening to this podcast, I will be able to improve the way I relate to students from diverse backgrounds.

